

HardisonInk.com

---

Gator Visits Hospital

This morning (Wednesday, June 29), the Williston Police Department received a call to respond to the Regional General Hospital in reference to an alligator visiting at the hospital. WPD officers along with Williston Animal Control Officer Wayne Carson responded and secured the 5-foot 10-inch unwanted patient, who was turned over to a Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission-authorized alligator trapper. WPD Chief Dennis Strow jokingly said that although the alligator may have visited RGH seeking treatment for dry skin, the reptile was unwanted as a dermatological patient. The alligator was issued a trespass warning due to his unfriendly personality, the chief added jokingly.

HardisonInk.com

---

WPD Officer Bryan Landis is seen here holding the gator. The trapper relocated the alligator to a different location.

Published June 29, 2016 @ 4:37 p.m.

Photos and Information, Courtesy of the Williston Police Department