CHIEFLAND -- At 7 p.m. on June 3, people gathered in Wayne Pridgeon Stadium to observe the graduation ceremony of the Chiefland High School Class of 2016 as the traditional pomp and circumstance, and speeches were given on the C. Doyle McCall Football Field.

After a welcome speech by Principal Matthew McLelland, along with the National Anthem and a prayer delivered by graduate Faith Ann McClellan, the students were acknowledged for their many different accomplishments.

Some of these meritorious highlights included advanced placement scholar recognition, presented by Principal McClelland; military recognition, presented by Senior Class Secretary Logan Beck; and career and technical education recognition, presented by Senior Class Historian Emily Tummond.

Addresses were given by the class Salutatorians Lindsay Harris and Trina Tolentino and class Valedictorian Trevor Castell.

In total, 88 students graduated.

The class's top graduates were Valedictorian Trevor Castell, Salutatorians Lindsey Harris and Trina Tolentino, Dilan Jones, Billy Hammond, Faith Ann McClellan, Joseph Wolfe, Logan Beck, T.J. Brice, Dakota Horlocker, and Zina Patel.
