Senior HardisonInk.com Mascot Goldy the cat Hardison (upper part of photo) and Junior Mascot Inky the cat Hardison train for the potential of being the mascot to pick a winning name from a hat, or from somewhere else. The potential exists for Santa Claus to make the selection of a winner's name too. Here the two cats are seen in their 'find the thing' search mode.

THE WORLD – There is a contest coming soon, where one person will win a Kindle Fire tablet with a seven-inch display screen. The people who are a team and work to provide daily news via HardisonInk.com know how hard people who own and work in local businesses strive to succeed.

That's one reason why this publication is using our Shop Local First logo in our contest. Not only does a reader get to win the Kindle, this contest is a great way to promote small business owners who are like us and who live in the Tri-County Area of Levy, Dixie and Gilchrist counties.

Yes, we have corporate ads on the bottom of our pages, but our heart is really with our local advertisers, who live here – not in Kentucky or wherever else.

And for any local advertiser, right now, HardisonInk.com has a special Christmastime ad offer.

Ho Ho HOLIDAY Giveaway!

All correct entries will be placed into a basket and the winner will be drawn on December 10.

One winner will be chosen. No purchase necessary. One entry per household. Must be 18 or older. Employees of HardisonInk.com and their immediate family are not eligible to win. HardisonInk.com is not responsible for entries without information requested or entries that are not sent to the proper e-mail address above.

No one can beat the price of this ad with the number of people will see those ads for 32 days for $150 on one page. Plus, if the business wants to kick it up a notch, that ad will be on each of the seven pages for $200.

HardisonInk.com has grown. The return on investment by advertisers keeps getting stronger, especially since ad prices have remained constant for six years now.

We contract now on occasion with an independent staff writer and photographer, our senior reporter – Terry Witt.

For these Christmas special ads, we are contracting with an independent salesperson as well. Both of these individuals are local residents who are earning a little bit of money through HardisonInk.com.

Inky and Goldy keep searching.

We start our seventh year in a few months.

Our archiving ability has changed. Now our stories and photos are print friendly. So feel free to click on the HardisonInk.com symbol on the bottom right of the ad space on any of the seven pages.

From there scroll around and find what you seek. Please remember all of our material is copyright protected. However, while you cannot sell this material or copy it as if you created it, you can put it in scrapbooks, frame it for placement on a wall or a desk and the like

As we have been known to note before -- Thank you to everyone for keeping www.HardisonInk.com as THE MOST VIEWED daily news website in the world for any form of print, broadcast or Internet-based media covering the Tri-County Area of Levy, Dixie and Gilchrist counties (and beyond).

Mascots relax after a rigorous morning of practice.
