Tiffany Mongo wins Award Winner Accepts Tickets

Tiffany Mongo of Bronson (left) accepts four tickets, four armbands and $40 in cash as the prize from HardisonInk.com Publisher Jeff M. Hardison recently in front of the Levy County Courthouse. The Levy County Fair ticket contest started on March 2 and ended March 24. The Levy County Fair starts today (Thursday, March 30) and goes through April 2 (Sunday) this year. The hours are from 4-10 p.m. Thursday; 4-midnight Friday; 10 a.m.-midnight Saturday; and noon-9 p.m. Sunday. There is another story showing the video of when the cats selected the winner's name from all of the entrants in this contest. That story, photo and video are on the LEISURE PAGE. To see it, scroll down beyond the story and video about the drone flight, the story and photo about Florida Panthers, and the Log Cabin Quilters story and photos.

JEMLANDS – Goldy and Inky the cats Hardison selected a winner this morning (Saturday, March 25) at about 7:30 a.m. in The Inkpad, which is nestled in the midst of Jemlands, an unrecorded subdivision in the unincorporated area of Levy County.

The Levy County Fair ticket contest started on March 2 and ended last night (March 24) at 11:59 p.m.

The contest showed two tickets and two armbands as the prize being offered, however the Levy County Fair Board made the prize even better by its donation of four tickets and armbands.

HardisonInk.com added $40 in cash so the winner can enjoy some of the delicious fair food available there.

In her entry, Mongo noted “I love the Levy County Fair because it's local and good fun for my family. We enjoy the rides, music, games, and I especially enjoy the FOOD!!!”

Mongo was the winner after both Goldy and Inky the cats picked her name from pieces of paper with the names of the competing entrants.

The cats performed their jobs very well, without even being coaxed into action by a laser pointer, which in some former selection processes was aimed at stacks of paper strips.

The method to qualify for the contest was to note why the person enjoys the Levy County Fair, and to send an email with a name and phone number.

Individuals who followed those directions between March 2 and 24 had their names entered into the contest.

The Levy County Fair is happening from March 30 (Thursday) through April 2 (Sunday) this year. The hours are from 4-10 p.m. Thursday; 4-midnight Friday; 10 a.m.-midnight Saturday; and noon-9 p.m. Sunday.
