Three Williston City Council Members Take The Oath Of Office

In this video and the still shot taken from the video, (from left) Williston City Councilman Kori Lamb, Williston City Councilman Tim Hass and Williston City Councilman Elihu Ross accept the oath of office administered by Levy County Judge J.T. 'Tim' Browning on Tuesday night (April 11) in Williston City Council Chambers.

Also that night, on a motion by Ross and unanimously approved, City Council President Charles Goodman was appointed again to his position as City Council president, and on a motion by Goodman and unanimously approved, City Council Vice President Nancy Wininger was appointed again to her position. Williston City Clerk Fran Taylor, who was following previous orders from Williston Mayor R. Gerald Hethcoat (who was absent), made sure there were refreshments for anyone who wanted them after the ceremony. Also present for the occasion was City Manager Scott Lippmann and some family members of the City Council members.
