

Fairgoers have fun

Story and Photos

By Reina Rogers © April 4, 2017 at 3:07 p.m.

CF Student Intern Journalist

WILLISTON -- A random survey of five visitors at the recent Levy County Fair March 31-April 2) reflects some of the fun that people had there.

Following are some guests' pictures and some commentary about their visit to the annual fair.

Nicole Cooper, 18
This year was Nicole Cooper's first time attending the Levy County Fair. Traveling all the way from Cedar Key to join her family for a night of fun, she succeeded in her mission. Nicole says that she loves the fair and hopes to come again. But she may not want to ride on the Area 51 ride again, because the spinning made her ill just prior to the interview.

Kristen Cook, 22
This year is Kristen Cook's second year at the fair. Last year, she entered a piece in the art competition. She earned a second place ribbon from her entry last year. She took a 30-minute (plus) ride from Chiefland to reach the fair and join in the various festivities. One part of her fun was riding The Claw ride several times.

HardisonInk.com

Nicole Cobb

Nicole Cobb brings her little tyke to the fair every year. She enjoys riding on the Area 51 ride when she's not chasing her daughter around the fair. When she's not involved with either of those activities, she indulges in funnel cake by the plateful. Due to her daughter not being tall enough to ride most of the rides, Cobb finished her night off by playing many of the games that were set up between the rides.

Auri Graham, 20 Drove from Trenton to attend the fair. Being as it was her first time ever attending the levy county fair. She took every ride as a challenge and conquered each. She promise's she will be back before the fair comes to an end.

HardisonInk.com

Brad Hill, 21

Originally from California, Brad Hill was very skeptical about attending the little fair. But once he arrived, he was captivated by the lights and rode all the rides until he was dizzy. When he retired from the rides, he won an inflatable alien while fishing for magnetic ducks. He thoroughly enjoyed himself and said he would definitely come again.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE: Reina Rogers is a student at the College of Central Florida. She is a student intern journalist for HardisonInk.com and currently intends to study journalism in college in her junior and senior years before earning a Bachelor's Degree.