BRONSON – Two past and one present Florida Cattlemen's Association (FCA) presidents were honored Tuesday morning (Aug. 8) at the regular meeting of the Levy County Board of County Commissioners.

The County Commission gave plaques to 2008-09 FCA President Robert "Bo" Hobby, 2011-12 FCA President Donald J. "Don" Quincey Jr. and 2017-18 FCA President Ken D. Griner.

Before the plaque presentation, County Commission Chairman John Meeks said these three men are excellent role models for young people today.

Chairman Meeks said he is thankful to County Commissioner Mike Joyner bringing it to his attention after the election of Griner this year, that there are three FCA presidents from Levy County.

Commissioner Joyner said he is proud and happy to know these three men who have done so much for the county, for the youth of Levy County and for their neighbors.

These men not only perform the duties necessary as cattle ranchers, but they serve on boards in the community as well to help people. Levy County is the only small county in Florida that Joyner could find where there were three FCA presidents over the years.

Some of the bigger counties might have three past FCA presidents, Joyner said, but Levy County is the only small county to hold this distinction.

He said it is an honor to have these three gentlemen present for the meeting on Tuesday.
