

HardisonInk.com

Airplane Lands

HardisonInk.com

These photos taken on the afternoon of Aug. 29 (a Wednesday) of an airplane landing at the Williston Municipal Airport reflects that this is one of the economic engines of the Williston area. There is an airport in Cross City (Dixie County) that helps that local economy as well. In addition to the fuel sales at the airport, there is other business activity that is conducted in the many hangars there. United States Federal Aviation Administration records show this airplane is a Ryan Navion B, with the registered owner being Jeffrey L. Davis of Canon, Georgia. The planted pine forest in the background is another economic driver in the area. Agricultural products and livestock such as peanuts, pine, corn, cattle, horses, swine, goats and sheep are important to all business interests in the area as well.

Photo by Jeff M. Hardison © Sep. 3, 2017 at 3:37 p.m.